

The Amazing Journey by Marie

Once there was a dinosaur who lived in the Cretaceous period. And she marched around, and she made loud thundering noises.

But one day she did not march around and all the dinosaurs were going, “Why is she not making loud noises?”

And then she said, “Be quiet, or else you might crack the eggs.”

And then one day, the babies hatched.

But there was one problem. One baby had only one arm, and he was a runt and nobody liked him.

So he set off on an amazing journey. He sailed a ship all the way to Alaska, which dinosaurs marched around there. But it was only just an army. So the tiny dino wanted to be in the army.

And then many years later when he grew up, he went back to his home. Why? Well, because there was a great big dinosaur that was marching around there.

So he went back. But he came back with his friends! And his friends came back with the ARMY! So they defeated the big dinosaur.

The End
