

Model Home Sold in Valley Village

The "House of Today," furnished model home constructed by the J. L. Dandy Co., has been sold furnished and will remain open only one week longer, until Dec. 1, according to the builder. It is located in Valley Village, North Hollywood.

"The almost continuous stream of homeseekers who have visited the model home during the months it has been open for inspection is concrete evidence that the demand for homes in the moderate-price field is as strong or stronger today than ever before," Dandy said yesterday.

DESIGN THAT COMBINES STYLE AND COMFORT

EARLY AMERICAN—That is the architectural style disclosed in the attractive lines of this dwelling which has a floor plan embodying real home comfort. One of its distinctive features is the large rear terrace. Other details of this dwelling are presented under the heading, "Is This the Home for You?" elsewhere on this page today.
